Hello!
I’m Ruben the lion and I’m here to help you explore the Museum of Art!
WELCOME TO THE MUSEUM OF ART!

Today, you can design your own art adventure by finding at least one work of art that fits into each of the following categories:

1. Has one person
2. Has more than one person
3. Has no people

When you find an artwork that fits into one of these categories, use the activities in this guide to explore it further!

---

Look Closely.

You can learn a lot about a person by looking at these six things:

- Facial Expression - what emotions are on their face?
- Gaze - where are they looking?
- Gesture - what are they doing with their hands and body?
- Clothing - what are they wearing?
- Objects - what have they surrounded themselves with?
- Setting - where are they located?

Pretend You are the Artist!

Artists make lots of choices: size, colors, materials, and more! Think about the choices the artist made while creating this artwork.

- What would happen if you made this work twice as big? What about half the size?
- If you could change the color of something in this artwork, what would you change? Why?
- Do you think the artist liked this person? Why or why not?
- What title would you give this artwork if you were the artist?
Be a Detective.
Use these clues to make up a story about the artwork!

- Who might these people be?
- What does it look like they are doing?
- When is this scene occurring? Day or night? Past, present, or future?
- Where are they located? Inside or outside? A place you recognize or one that is unfamiliar?
- How are they feeling? What do you see that makes you say that?
- Why might they be doing what they are doing or feeling the way they are feeling?

Act it Out.
Assign one character to each member of your group. Act out the scene you see in front of you, creating your own script as you go. What do you think happens next? What would each character’s personality be like?

Find an artwork with TWO or MORE people

Play a Memory Game.
Look at a work of art for 15 seconds, then turn around and see how many things you can remember seeing in it.

Play a Game of I Spy!
Look for colors, shapes, animals, or details.

Think Out Loud
about what you would see, hear, smell, or feel if you were inside this artwork.

Look Slowly!
Try looking at the same artwork in different ways and see how it changes. Here are some ideas to get you started:

- Look up close (but please stay an arm’s length away from the art)
- Look from far away (try it from across the gallery!)
- Look while standing
- Look while sitting on the ground
- Look at the surroundings...
  how do they impact the work?
MEET RUBEN!

Ruben is the mascot of Family Programs at The Ringling. He is named after artist Peter Paul Rubens, whose work has become a favorite among local children and families. One Rubens painting on display includes this lion and inspired The Ringling to adopt a lion mascot!

Look for Ruben around our campus on guides and brochures written specifically for children and families. More resources are available online at ringling.org/kids-families.
